Warren Foster, the leader of the Populist party in this state, and the has, after mature consideration, concluded to support William J. Bryan, the Democratic nominee for the presidency, and in the next issue of his Some Contradictory Statements-The proper, the Intermountain Advocate, will give his reasons for so doing, and recommending that the Populais at their national convention to be held at St. Louis nominate Mr. Bryan as their

PRODUCED ASTONISHMENT

To my utter astomishment, the Democratic convention not only adopted a platform demanding the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of any other nation, but it also demanded the abbiltion of all banks of issue and favored the issuing of all paper money by the general government. It even went farther along the lines of monetary reform and demanded that the government shall decide in what money its obligations shall be paid, and also government shall decide in what money its obligations shall be paid, and also opposed the present system of allowing souliess corporations to demonstize a portion of our money by private contract. Essentially, this is the Populist platform on money.

William J. Bryan for president. Several ways have been suggested as to how this can be done and the Populist party reasn its organization. Populist party retain its organization, which, of course. I think would be the proper thing to do. There are yet the great question, of government control of public utilities and the great question. Now to the point: On the 20th day of June of this year, I was honored with that nomination. The nomination came spontaneously, without any request or effort whatever on my part, It is indeed putting it very mildly for the to say that I ampreciate the honor me to say that I appreciate the honor so generously bestowed. At that time, not anticipating the action of the Democratic national convention, I ex-Democratic national convention, I expressed myself very much opposed to what I am now advocating, and as I feel that I should express my views freely and fearlessly, but cannot do so while a candidate for office, therefore, to the end that I may be free, absolutely free, from all entangling circumstances, I feel it to be a duty that I owe to myself and my friends that I return to them the trust they so heartily bestowed upon me, by placing return to them the trust they so heartily bestowed upon me, by placing my resignation at their disposal; and if at any time during the progress of the campaign it shall appear to the good people of Utah that any other Populist would be more acceptable to the united forces, my resignation will be forthcoming. In the meantime, and for all time thereafter, I shall be found in the thickest of the battle, fighting for the cause to which I eight years ago consecrated my efforts, my life, my all.

Hoping, and conscientiously believing hat the step here taken will be for the that the step here taken will be for the best, I beg to remain Yours for humanity, WARREN FOSTER. Salt Lake City, July 15, 1896.

Up to the time of the meeting of the national Democratic convention. I had, through my paper and on the public rostrum, denounced in strong terms any and all propositions tending toward a coalition of the reform forces, and especially any union with the two dominant parties.

It had been generally conceded for weeks past that the Democratic convention would demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver, but would go no farther in the line of monetary reform. This alone, I then considered, and do now consider, inadequate; that so long as the goldoug bankers had control of the paper money issue that all good effects of the free coinage of silver could and would be counteracted and instead of good resulting from the roots of the free coinage of silver could and would be counteracted and instead of good resulting from the roots of the free coinage of silver could and would be counteracted and instead of good resulting from the roots of the free coinage of silver could and would be counteracted and instead of good resulting from the roots of the free coinage of silver could and would be countered.

Creditors to the Amount of $18,000 Agree to Take His rersonal Notes and Relinquish Their Claims on the Assets of the Bank, Which it is Proposed to Convey to Trustees

Who Will Act Without Pay.

FOUR MONTHS.

For several days Mr. J. H. Bacon has en working on a proposition for a settlement with the creditors of the Bank of Salt Lake, and yesterday it took such form as, according to reports, is likely to meet the approval of those interested.

Mr. Bacon offers to give each of his creditors three notes of equal amount for the full sum of the claims, with 6 per cent, interest added, the notes pay able in nine, eighteen and twenty-four months.

He offers to secure these notes, which will amount to about $167,000, by transare in trouble. According to the charge made by Selma Anderson, a Swedish servant girl, they are guilty of stealing a gold watch from her, valued at $25,000, and the trustees will serve without any remuneration until the notes are all paid, thus relieving the extate of the heavy expense of receivable.

of the old original "rings" got together in front of the Knutsford last evening, and they began to talk on incidents which had happened to their relatives. Every man had a fairly good story and the laugh gurgled forth until 10 o'clock, when the crowd adjourned for a quiet poker party.

Most of the stories had reference to Sunday schools or such the first inning.

"I had a very dear friend once. She was not exactly a relative, but she had promised to be a sister to me. She taught a Sunday school class at St. Paul's in this city, and as a matter of information she wore red hair, speaking paragorically.

"It was her unhappy lot to have a class of boys, ten-year-olds, little cherubs with a question mark as most hads of that age. One Sunday her subjects were nearly exhausted, and so she told the boys the story of the Lord turning water into wine, and of one or two other miracies. When she had finished one bright lad spoke up and said "Rats! that's nothin'; there was a man at Wonderland who could turn a rabbit into a dove."

"Well, a sister—a real sister—of mine

"Well, a sister—a real sister—of mine had a class in a Sunday school once, a class of chinamen in the Congregational church.
"She was in the habit of asking them all kinds of questions, usually ending up by answering them herself.

"One day in class she held up a rose, and asked a slant-eyed representative from Shanghai, John, who made this rose?"

"John didn't know, so she continued,
'God made this rose; he made it look pretty and smell sweet."
"Some minutes passed and finally the teacher, addressing the same Chinaman, asked, John, who made you?"
"John's eyes twinkled. This was the time he wasn't stuck, and answered quickly:

quickly:
"God makee me; he makee me lookee pretty and smellee sweet."

"I had a brother once," said another, "a clersyman, who told me a most shocking incident which happened during his ministerial career.

"It seems he was preaching about the Father's tender wisdom in caring for us all. He always illustrated his talks, and showed how He knew which of us should have sunlight and which shade.
"He said you plant roses, heliotrope and fuchsias in the sunlight, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in the shade.

"He said you plant roses, heliotrope and fuchsias in the sunlight, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in the shade.

"He thought that the sermon would be a comforting one, and he knew that it had had a good effect when he saw a young woman walking toward him after service. Her face glowed with deep true pleasure, as she said oh, I'm so grateful for that sermon she said, warmly shaking my brother's hand.

"His heart thumped a tattoo as he wondered what tender place in her life he had touched—but only for a moment, for she went on fervently.

"Yes, you know I never knew before what was the matter with my fuchsias."

CARNIVAL AT SALAIR.

Attendance Large Last Evening, Aithough the Weather Was Threatening.

The employees of the Salt Lake theatre are deserving of considerable credit for the highly successful mask carnival given at Saltair under their management last evening. While the attendance was not so large as on former occasions of the kind, it was by no means small, and the number of meskers attracted by the generous prizes was equal both in numbers and character to any previous attempts here. Among the character, Taranp-Meklinicy after the election, clowns, Chinese, farmers, Knights, Turkish given at Saltair under their management last evening. While the attendance was not so large as on former occasions of the kind, it was by no means small, and the number of meskers attracted by the generous prizes was equal both in numbers and character to any previous attempts dear attracted. Gene Burns, 360; most elegant costume, Maud Bruce, Schebelle Bigeine and S. Newman; representation of mational character. Nute Laurell, orbitaid character, Oile Anderson, and several others whose names could not be obtained.
